

Group 19 Problem Statement

Ben, a PhD student studying the Yellow-Billed Horbill, needs a way to capture information about the weight of the females in their nesting box because they enclose themselves in for the nesting period, making it difficult to weigh them and their weight is important information for their survival.